Gentlemen,

By tonight's mail I send you a list of my little coin collection which I wish to sell. Would you care to purchase? Had I intended sending you the list would have made it out differently - without remarks &c - but it was made for a friend who wants the coins yet finds himself unable to purchase. There are almost 400 pieces and my price for it is $30, cash or would take $40, and a fine, evenly struck, dark color, unused set of Executive Department Stamps.
Shall I send the coins by-Express for your examination with the understanding that if not acceptable you will prepay express charges in return.

Soubtless you will think some coins on list are marked too high but some I know according to Scott's new Catalogue are not high enough. Many uncirculated pieces he does not price.

I am not needy and if I do not sell to you shall probably retain the coins have added but little to them for years and cannot do justice both to coins and stamps.

Hoping to hear from you early
I am

Respectfully Yours
